Rep. Stone Honored by State Child Advocate

The state Child Advocate has recognized state Rep. Jack Stone, R-134th, Fairfield, Trumbull, along with three other legislators for their efforts on behalf of Connecticut children.

Rep. Stone received a Certificate of Appreciation from Child Advocate Jeanne Milstein for “tireless efforts” to assist children with disabilities and complex medical conditions.

“It is an honor to receive this recognition,” said Rep. Stone. “It is rewarding in itself to work for those who are most vulnerable in society, particularly young people with special needs.”

Others receiving the recognition were state Sen. Judith Freedman, Republican of Westport, as well as House Speaker James Amann, Democrat of Milford, and Senate President pro Tempore Donald Williams, Democrat of Brooklyn, CT.

Rep. Stone added, “Working with the leadership of both houses and both parties, legislators can achieve real change to better the lives of children in Connecticut. I look forward to continuing my service to children with special needs. These young people offer true potential. We need to do more to provide better community based facilities for them.”

The certificate recognized Rep. Stone for his efforts “in championing change for children with disabilities and complex medical conditions.”

Rep. Stone serves as ranking member of the Public Safety Committee, as well as a member of the Public Health Committee and the Appropriations Committee. He represents the 134th Assembly District of Fairfield and Trumbull in the state House of Representatives.
